

2021 #MMIWGActionNow Twitter Storm
Tuesday, May 5, 2021 | 10-10:30 a.m. MDT

Post 1:

Today at 10am MDT: Speak out with NIWRC using #MMIWGActionNow to tell leaders that #MMIWG is unacceptable. Native women & girls deserve justice + safety. ❤️✊

Post 2:

🙏 Today, May 5, we honor the lives of missing & murdered Native women & girls (#MMIWG).

📢 The murder rate of Native women is 10x the nat'l average on some reservations.

💔 These crimes are often connected to domestic violence, sexual assault, trafficking, etc.

Post 3:

May 5th was the birthday of 21-yr-old Hanna Harris (Northern Cheyenne), murdered in 2013. Each year, grassroots advocates & Native groups organize activities on May 5th as the Nat'l Day of Awareness for #MMIWG. #MMIWGActionNow

Post 4:

❤️ Today, May 5th, we wear red to honor Hanna & all for missing & murdered Indigenous women & girls (#MMIWG).

🙏 Their lives matter. Their stories matter.

✊ Native women & girls deserve justice + safety.

Post 5:

Native women face:

📈 highest rates of violence of any group in the U.S.

🏠 highest rate of domestic violence and rape of any group of women.

🚫 This is UNACCEPTABLE. #MMIWGActionNow

Post 6:

📢 Failed federal laws continue to govern the lives & safety of Native women = legal loopholes for non-Native perpetrators who target Native women with impunity. We need protections for Native women & girls! #MMIWGActionNow #MMIWG

Post 7:

The long-standing national crisis of #MMIWG can be attributed to the historical & intergenerational trauma caused by colonization + its legacy of violence, oppression & racism stretching back 500+ years.
